CMPL SECTION

Re: Martha C. Rose Chemicals, Inc. Site
Holden, Missouri

Dear Mr. Schneider:

The United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has expended public funds to investigate and respond to releases and threatened releases of hazardous substances at the above referenced site. The EPA may spend additional public funds to further investigate and take corrective action for the control of such releases and threatened releases of hazardous substances at the above referenced site, unless EPA determines that responsible parties will properly perform such actions. Any site actions taken by EPA will be pursuant to Section 104 of the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act of 1980, as amended by the Superfund Amendments and Reauthorization Act of 1986, 42 U.S.C. § 9601 et seq. (CERCLA).

Under Sections 106(a) and 107(a) of CERCLA and other laws, responsible parties may be obligated to implement any response action as determined to be necessary by EPA and may also be liable for all costs incurred by the government in responding to any release or threatened release at the site. Such costs can include, but are not limited to, expenditures for investigation, planning, clean-up of the site and enforcement. By this letter, EPA notifies the Greylock Electrical Company, Inc. of its potential liability with regard to this matter and encourages your company to undertake clean-up activities as will be overseen by EPA.

Responsible parties under Section 107(a) of CERCLA include current and past owners and operators, as well as persons who arranged for the transport, treatment, or disposal of hazardous substances. Based on site records, including shipping records, EPA has information indicating that your company may be a
